DETECTING SUSPICIOUS BEHAVIOR through KINESICS

Benchmark Tactical has put together a course that specifically focuses on the real potential of dangerous threats and attacks that each and every one of our citizens and communities face today. Detecting Suspicious Behavior through Kinesics is a course that will challenge and improve the skills in recognizing a potential dangerous individual. Every individual gives off indicators that he/she is concealing some type of item that they know is true to be illegal, whether it is a firearm, knife, or some other type of weapon. (DCB) will give you the tools to recognize and properly react to a potential dangerous situation before it happens. This proven method has drastically decreased the potential number of terrorist incidents in the Middle East. Each student after this one day course will be better prepared, tactically sound and have the confidence to protect themselves and their families.
